TOMORROW; NO TEMPERATURE CHANGE

THE TEMPERATURE.

THE POWERS AND OUR FEELS ARE PLAYING THE OLD ARMY GAME.

Germany's War Lord and His Six Sturdy, Warlike Sons; Tower at Spandau Where Germany's War Hoard of Gold Is Kept

THE famed Julius Tower at Spandau, near Berlin, contains Germany's war reserve fund in gold that has been accumulating many years. How much this fund is, of course, is a German army secret, but the Kaiser's plan in accumulating it has been to insure sufficient funds for his Empire to weather any military storm that might beset it. The Julius Tower is a mighty fortress of granite under the constant protection of the army.

SWORD FORCED INTO HANDS, SAYS KAISER; WARNS HIS ENEMIES

They Should be Shown "What It Means to Provoke Germany," Declares Emperor in Speech to People From Palace Window—Chancellor Also Addresses populace.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—Responding to the cheers of 5000 persons who assembled in front of the royal palace late yesterday afternoon, Emperor William made an address from a window, in which he declared the sword had been "forced into our hands," and that if his final efforts for peace should fail, the enemies of the empire should be shown what it means to provoke Germany.

Count von Bethmann-Hollweg, in a stirring speech today from the window of his official residence, to a huge crowd of demonstrators, expressed sentiments similar to those delivered by Emperor William.

"A fatal hour has fallen for Germany," the Kaiser said. "Envious people everywhere are compelling us to our just defense. The sword has been forced into our hands."

"I hope that if my efforts at a last hour do not succeed in bringing our opponents to see are to eye with us, and in maintaining peace, we shall, with God's help, so wield the sword that we shall restore it to its sheath again with honor."

Count von Bethmann-Hollweg, in a stirring speech today from the window of his official residence, to a huge crowd of demonstrators, expressed sentiments similar to those delivered by Emperor William.

"At this serious hour, in order to give expression to your feelings for your fatherland, you have come to the house of the Kaiser."

TRANSATLANTIC TIEUP OF LINERS NEARLY COMPLETE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—Wholesale cancellations of transatlantic sailings, recalls by wireless of European-bound vessels a day or two out of port, and suspension altogether of transatlantic service by three lines were announced in rapid succession here today.

The North German-Lloyd Line, which announced yesterday that no more vessels would sail from either side of the Atlantic, completed its tieup by ordering back to port today three vessels—the Friederich der Grosse, the Grosser Kurfurst and the Neckar—which sailed on July 28, from Baltimore, New York and Calveston respectively.

The Russian-American Line announced the suspension of its transatlantic service and sailings of the seven vessels comprising the Atlas service of the Hamburg-American Line between New York, the West Indies and Panama have all been canceled.

The transatlantic service between New York and Continental Europe was suspended by the Cunard Line and the International Mercantile Co., which controls the White Star, Red Star, Amer-

RATE DECISION TO BE PUBLISHED AT 4:30 TODAY

Commission Announces It Will Try to Announce Finding in Eastern Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—It was announced today at the Interstate Commerce Commission "that every effort would be made to publish the decision in the Eastern advance freight case" at or after 4:30 p. m. today.

The commission at 3 p. m. announced that the decision would not be announced until 4:30 p. m.

Officials said any reports purporting to give the commission's conclusions in the noted case would be wholly unauthorized and speculative.

The decision, affecting 52 railroad systems east of the Mississippi River and north and east of the Potomac and Ohio rivers, in what is designated official classification territory, has been under consideration several months and an announcement has been expected from day to day for the last six weeks. The railroads have asked the increase solely on the ground that their revenues have become insufficient to meet the increasing cost of wages and other expenses.

Opposition to the increase has been conducted on the ground that the railroads would have sufficient revenue without increasing charges to the public by conserving their revenue, with greater efficiency and eliminating free service to large shippers.

Freight rate increases on packing house products from Cedar Rapids and other Iowa points to St. Paul and Minneapolis were sustained by the Interstate Commerce Commission today.

MERCHANT FALLS IN STREET, UNABLE TO RISE.

Jacob Rothschild, 46 years old, a director of the Rothschild Hat Co., fell to the sidewalk in front of 410 North Seventh street, about 11 o'clock, Saturday morning, and was unable to rise.

A traffic policeman accompanied him to the central dispensary, where physicians said Rothschild was suffering from pleurisy. He was later taken to his home at 120 West Pine boulevard.

KING GEORGE APPEALS TO CZAR FOR PEACE; ITALY TO BE NEUTRAL

Roman Government Decides It Can not Be Called Upon by Allies, a Austrian War Is Offensive One—Communication Between London and Continent Ceases.

War Situation in Brief:

French mobilization has been ordered, but no definite information as to German mobilization has been permitted to come through.

Telephonic communication has been cut between Germany and France and between the continent and England.

The whereabouts of the British and German fleets are likewise a mystery to all except the governments concerned.

The German Ambassador was reported to have left St. Petersburg.

Ultimatums were sent today by Germany to France and Russia. Russia was ordered by Emperor William to suspend mobilization within 12 hours, expiring at noon, while France was given 18 hours to declare her attitude in certain contingencies. Germany told Russia the mobilization of the German army would begin at the expiration of the ultimatum.

Italy probably will remain neutral, as she regards the campaign of her allies, Germany and Austria, as an aggressive war, in which case she is not called on to intervene.

King George made a final effort today to maintain peace by telegraphing to Emperor Nicholas of Russia.

Japan will not intervene unless British interests in the Far East are endangered.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—An official decree orders general mobilization of the French army, beginning tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Official advice received at the White House today report the German Ambassador leaving St. Petersburg. Ambassador Herriek and Paris reported that a proposal to place German interests in France in his hand was being discussed there. Herriek has been ordered to remain at his post until his successor, William G. Sharp, arrives.

No action has been taken by this Government on the proposal for Ambassador Herriek to represent Germany in France, but officials expect that such duties will devolve upon American diplomats generally in Europe, and will be assumed by them. Other reports received at the White House from American diplomatic officers were characterized "not encouraging." None received by the President held out any hope that a general European war might be averted.

Paris Has No Hope of Peace.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—At the French Foreign Office today officials declared they considered it would now be folly to rely on hope of a peaceful outcome of the international crisis. English efforts, they said, had failed and any glimmer of hope which appeared had been extinguished immediately.

Baron von Seck, the German Ambassador

War Spirit Is Sweeping Europe; It Is Folly to Hope for Peace Now, Say French

Ad doors today with Premier Viviani at the Foreign Office. The conditions under which the diplomatic "conversations" continued today made it, in the French official view, appear almost impossible to expect a satisfactory issue, and it was reluctantly admitted that war seemed to be only a question of hours. Dispatches from Rome say Italy formally notified the German Ambassador there this evening that she would remain neutral. The text of the dispatch from Rome says:

"It is authoritatively announced that the Marquis di San Giuliano, Italian Foreign Minister, has informed the German Ambassador at Rome that Italy will remain neutral, her obligations under the Triple Alliance treaty applying only to a defensive war. Italy therefore considers herself released from her engagements, the war waged by Austro-Hungary, supported by Germany, being essentially an offensive war."

Many weddings were performed yesterday and today, having been hastened owing to the prospect of the bridegroom's having to leave for the frontier.

Italy Reported to Be Neutral.

ROME, Aug. 1.—The Messagero today says that the German Ambassador has informed the Italian Government that Germany has sent simultaneous ultimatums to Russia and France.

The German Government in its ultimatum to Russia asked her to suspend her mobilization within 12 hours.

In the demand sent by Germany to France the Government at Berlin requires France to inform it within 18 hours whether in case of war between Germany and Russia, France would remain neutral.

The German Ambassador to Italy today also asked to be informed as to Italy's attitude in the event of war between Germany and Austria-Hungary on the one side and Russia and France on the other.

The Marquis di San Giuliano, the Italian Foreign Minister, said he would reserve his reply until he had consulted Premier Salandra.

According to the Messagero, during the interview which followed the Marquis di San Giuliano and Premier Salandra were in complete agreement as to the line of conduct to be pursued by Italy in the present crisis. The Messagero declares that as it is not a question of a defensive war on the part of Germany and Austria-Hungary, the other two members of the Triple Alliance, Italy has decided to confine herself to pointing out to her allies that her treaty obligations with them do not oblige her to take up arms in the present crisis and that she will remain neutral.

King George Seeks Peace as War Preparations Are Rushed

LONDON, Aug. 1.—King George, in a final effort to prevent an outbreak of a general European war and the meeting of millions of men in armed conflict, today at the eleventh hour sent a dispatch to his ally, Emperor Nicholas of Russia, and his message was understood to contain an ultimate appeal for the preservation of peace. His Majesty's action was taken after an audience with Premier Asquith at 2 o'clock this morning when the war clouds were blackest.

At the same time from Rome came the news, published in The Messagero, that Italy had decided to remain neutral unless attacked. While this information was not confirmed, it was said official circles to have caused no surprise.

The German ultimatum sent to Russia said that if Russia did not stop her mobilization by noon today, Germany would begin the mobilization of her army.

The Russian embassy in London this evening pointed out the difficulty created for Russia by Germany's ultimatum. An official said Russia had nothing against Germany and had merely taken precautionary measures on the Austrian frontier. He added that, in spite of the gravity of the situation, "conversations" continued both at Vienna and St. Petersburg, and that Sergius Sazonoff, the Russian Premier, had declared himself to be imbued with the most peaceful ideas and that he was prepared to go to the uttermost limits to prevent war.

The censor drew a veil over what developments might have been the result of the German ultimatum to Russia and to France and of King George's intervention with the Emperor of Russia. The latest message to reach here from Berlin was an official notification that Germany's ultimatum to Russia expired at noon and the general belief was expressed here that Russia could have given only one answer unless King George had supplied a formula which would save the faces of the European Powers principally concerned.

German Preparations Are World Wide.

German circles today showed considerable uneasiness all over the world. The German forces in China were being concentrated at Tsing-Tau, the German Consul-General left his post at Cape Town and German merchant ships were ordered to seek neutral ports.

In regard to the Far East, the Japanese Ambassador in London said today as long as the warships belonging to the nations composing the Triple Alliance remained at Tsing-Tau, Japan would take no action against them, but should they attack British interests or should Tsing-Tau be attacked, a situation would arise which would be dealt with by Japan in the spirit of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

At the German Embassy here reference was made to German mention of French neutrality in the note to the French Government and it was said that this seemed to imply that France would not be attacked by Germany.

The usual flood of telegrams from the Continent to London was stopped suddenly this afternoon and only a few messages were delivered, and these were either belated or lacking in importance. Telephonic communication also ceased.

Bank for Gold in London.

In regard to the financial situation, the Bank of England, which was again called upon to supply an unprecedented amount of gold, raised its rate today to 10 per cent, which is higher than has been since the Indian mutiny in 1857. The next highest was 9 per cent in 1873.

Besides the crowd in front of the bank entrance seeking notes for gold, there was a continual stream of cabs and trays leaving the bank carrying gold to London and provincial banks and large business firms which feared that the bank act would be suspended soon and that they would be unable to obtain any more gold. Otherwise the British capital showed no signs of excitement.

The Bank of England printers, who work on the premises, are engaged night and day in turning out new notes, as the bank has arranged to issue bills to the maximum extent its machinery and its charter permit with a view to conserving its gold reserve.

Many Americans still insist on obtaining passports from the United States Embassy, mainly for Germany and France, in spite of warnings that their chances for obtaining transportation are infinitesimal. They declare their reason to be, in most cases, to get members of their families out of those countries but some of them say they have important business to transact.

General Mobilization in Austria.

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—The Official Gazette announces that Emperor Francis-Joseph has ordered general mobilization of the army and navy, and has called the landsturm, a division of the reserve forces, to the colors, owing to the mobilization ordered by Russia.

The Gazette adds that the action has no aggressive tendency and is solely in the nature of a precautionary measure.

"Conversations" between Russian and Austro-Hungarian diplomats were still under way last night. The Russian Ambassador yesterday had prolonged interviews at the Ballplatz. Although no reports of the "conversation" have been published, it still is contended that an European conflict is not inevitable.

The Mayor of Vienna, at the request of the Government, yesterday issued an ordinance forbidding shopkeepers to hold provisions for speculative purposes.

Germany Announces Time Is Up.

BERLIN, Aug. 1.—It was officially announced today that the time limit of the German ultimatum to Russia expired at noon today.

An official communication published today in the North German Gazette says the Russian Emperor on July 29, telegraphed to Emperor William, urgently requesting him to help in averting the misfortune of a European war and to try to restrain his ally, Austria-Hungary, from going too far.

Emperor William replied that he would willingly take up the task of mediator and accordingly diplomatic action was initiated in Vienna.

While this was in progress the news that Russia was mobilizing reached Berlin and Emperor William telegraphed to the Emperor of Russia that his role as mediator was by this endangered, if not made impossible.

The communication adds that a decision was to have been taken in Vienna today in regard to the mediation proposals, in which Great Britain had joined Germany, but that meanwhile Russia had ordered the full mobilization of her forces. Upon this Emperor William sent a last telegram to Emperor Nicholas, emphatically declaring that his own responsibility for the safety of the German Empire had forced him to take defensive measures.

Bombardment of Belgrade Denied

VIENNA, Aug. 1.—It was semi-officially announced last night that nothing of importance occurred at the seat of war during the day.

The statement denies that Austrian artillery bombarded the city of Belgrade, declaring that such a bombardment would be contrary to the usages of international law. Fire was only opened on combatant troops, it says, who used private houses as firing positions.

Russian-English Steamers Stopped

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Steamship communication between St. Petersburg and England has been stopped.

Patriotic demonstrations were repeated last night in front of the Admiralty and before the statue of Peter the Great.

The only peaceful note heard here is that an extraordinary council of ministers was held at Peterhof last evening and that there was presented to it a modified situation, resulting chiefly from a communication by the German Ambassador, following messages exchanged between the Czar, the Kaiser and King George.

Russians, Singing Hymns, Enroll.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Enrollment of the reservists of the Russian army started at a hundred centers in the Russian capital at 6 o'clock this morning and was accompanied by stirring scenes. Crowds of women and children accompanied their husbands and fathers to the assembling stations while priests everywhere blessed the reservists as they marched through the streets singing hymns.

600,000 Russians on Frontier.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 1.—Mobilization of Russia's forces is proceeding smoothly, and already there are 600,000 men along the Austrian frontier.

There is immense relief at the news that the British fleet has put to sea, and the knowledge that England has adopted Foreign Minister Sazonoff's view, namely, that Russia and Serbia must be considered together, has given great satisfaction.

The Government is now striving to placate Finland, where martial law is in effect.

Preparations are being made for the Czar to go to Moscow with his full military staff and move thence to field quarters.

Berlin Makes Suggestion.

PARIS, Aug. 1.—The German Ambassador to France had packed and was ready to leave Paris at 1 o'clock this afternoon when a dispatch reached him from Berlin, making some sort of suggestion, which the French Government took into consideration, and about which it exchanged views with London and St. Petersburg.

It was stated after the receipt of the German communication that there was only the most slender hope that it would have any result. In some quarters the communication was interpreted as merely a device by Germany to gain time to complete her mobilization, as it was accompanied by a condition which was unacceptable. Arrangements were made last night by Myron T. Herrick, the American Ambassador, acting under instructions from Washington, to take over the care of the German Embassy, while Alexander M. Thackara, the American Consul-General, is to look after the affairs of the German Legation.

Peace Bureau Appeals

to President Wilson

to Offer Mediation

THE International Bureau of Peace today sent an appeal to President Wilson to offer his mediation in the European conflict.

The bureau also asked the German Emperor to use his efforts to settle the controversy, reminding him that the twenty-fifth anniversary of his reign had been celebrated in peace.

President Poincaré of France, Emperor Nicholas of Russia and Pope Pius were among others appealed to in the interest of peace.

STANDARD OIL STOPS EXPORTS

Tank Ships Which Were to Have Left Atlantic Ports Today Are Kept at Dock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—All exports of petroleum and other oil products destined for Europe have been stopped by the Standard Oil Co., such commodities being considered contraband of war. Several standard tank ships which were to leave Atlantic ports today have been ordered to remain at dock.

The steamer Kiowa, owned by the Standard Oil Co. and flying a German flag, was called back to New York late yesterday after sailing in the morning with a cargo of petroleum for Algeria. It is reported that the company has recalled from foreign waters all of its ships. Representatives of the foreign department of the company, however, refused to comment upon this or give any other information concerning the movements of Standard Oil vessels.

JAP NAVY READY FOR EMERGENCY

Premier Says That to Gain a Great Peace a Great War Is Sometimes Unavoidable.

TOKIO, Japan, Aug. 1.—The Japanese navy has been prepared to meet any emergency and the Minister of Marine, Vice-Admiral Rokuro Yashiro, today went to Nikko to consult the Emperor on the international situation. Meanwhile, the second battle squadron has assembled at the naval station, Sasebo.

The Premier, Count Shigenobu Okuma, who is to confer with the Emperor tomorrow, in a speech today referred to the gravity of the situation.

He said that to bring about a great peace, a great war was sometimes unavoidable. He added that perhaps a general disturbance in Europe would resolve itself into the final war of the world leading to permanent and universal peace.

Smelter and Seven Mines at Butte Close Because of War Scare.

BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 1.—As a result of the unsettled conditions in the metal markets, domestic and foreign, due to European war clouds, the Great Falls smelter of the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. has suspended and seven mines were ordered shut down. More than 2000 men were affected and it was anticipated by mining officials that if the chaotic condition of the markets continued for a week a general suspension of the Butte mines and the washer smelter might result.

She will stop on the Grand Banks long enough to pick up 1000 men of the French fishing fleet and then will proceed to Brest where the fishermen will be distributed among warships.

BANKERS TRY TO KEEP AMERICAN GOLD AT HOME

Effort to Prevent Exportation to Europe May Work Hardship on Tourists—Suspension of Import Business Near.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The determination of American bankers to prevent the exportation of more gold to Europe, may make it extremely difficult for the 300,000 Americans abroad to get cash for their immediate wants. It was indicated today in reports from abroad that, in the event of a general war and the suspension of payments by the banks, it would be impossible for Americans to get cash on their letters of credit or travelers' checks.

Express companies, members of the American Bankers' Association and representatives of foreign banks have announced that they have suspended the issuance of letters of credit or the sale of travelers' checks, because, it was said, it was impossible to buy foreign exchange to cover them.

Sufficient Balance Abroad. The express companies and banks announced that every dollar mentioned in the letters of credit or the sale of travelers' checks, they explained that they had sufficient balances abroad to meet those demands.

An almost complete suspension of the import business of the country is near at hand, according to members of large importing firms. The canceling of the sailings of all vessels by German steamship lines yesterday was feared to be merely a resumption of more serious obstacles to the importing trade. Great difficulty is expected to be experienced in moving American exports because of the limited tonnage under United States registry of neutral flags.

Rise in Exchange Rate. Still more ominous was the rise in the rate of exchange abroad. This feature of the war situation reached such proportions that large importing houses issued cable orders to stop buying goods on the other side. In many instances goods have been advanced from 10 to 15 per cent in Europe the present week.

Apart from the inability of foreign manufacturers and exporters to fill orders stands the probable prohibition of the interested governments of many lines of exports. Germany issued a decree of this kind yesterday and importers said they looked for similar action by the other European Powers. The situation confronting importers contains elements of war before met with in the business here. The New York Stock Exchange, which closed yesterday for an indefinite period, remained closed today, with indications that its doors would not open until such time as the European situation should show marked improvement. There will be no unheralded opening of the exchange, according to one of its officials, as every member will be given at least 12 hours' notice in advance of the opening. This official added that it was his opinion the exchange would remain closed for some little time.

Washington Acts to Prevent Financial Disturbance. WASHINGTON, Aug. 1.—Immediate complications of the Federal Reserve

Board and passage by the House of a Senate Bill removing certain restrictions upon the issue of emergency currency by national banks, were features in the administration's plans today to reassure the country against financial disturbance during unrest in Europe. Steps which had been decided upon to that end included the passage by the House of the Senate amendment, which would make more easily accessible the $50,000,000 issue of currency which Secretary McAdoo announced would be immediately available.

The bill, which had been unanimously adopted by the Senate, would amend the currency law by modifying that clause compelling banks of national currency associations, in order to avail themselves of the issue of a half-billion of emergency money, to have outstanding currency notes, secured by United States bonds to an amount not less than 40 per cent of a bank's capital. The amendment would authorize the Secretary of the Treasury, in his discretion, to ignore this restriction. Lack of a quorum in the House Committee delayed consideration of the bill. The House adjourned to Monday.

Belief today was that the President had decided upon Edwin A. Potter, of Chicago as the successor of Thomas D. Jones of Chicago, whose nomination to the Federal Reserve Board was withdrawn. Potter is a well-known banker of wide experience and a Republican. The appearance of Warburg before the Banking Committee was arranged for after an exchange of messages between himself and President Wilson and Chairman Owen of the committee. He notified Senator Owen that "out of deference to the President's urgent request," he would appear today. He had been for weeks holding back from an examination by the committee.

A feeling of optimism over the general financial outlook in this country prevailed today in administration circles and in Congress.

Official announcement was made that the nomination of a member of the Federal Reserve Board to fill the vacancy caused by the withdrawal of Thomas D. Jones would be sent to the Senate Monday.

DANISH AUTHOR OF BOOK
ON FRIEDRICH NIETZSCHE

DR. GEORGE BRANDES.

BRANDES ON NIETZSCHE.
WHEN Friedrich Nietzsche was obscure and neglected by all of Europe, he was discovered by a kindred spirit who was in some respects
as peculiar as the German philosopher.
With that keen individualism of the North, George Brandes sensed in Nietzsche a philosopher of the future.
At first he did not take kindly to everything the German wrote. He did not like his ideas, particularly as to women and anarchism. Nor did he like his treatment of some of the men from whom Nietzsche gained inspiration. But he liked the general tenor of his work.

So he wrote his famous essay on "Aristocratic Radicalism." The characteristic of Brandes is the same man. Brandes inspired Nietzsche greatly. In this essay Brandes gives an insight into Nietzsche's work.
This essay, supplemented by two or three shorter ones and several letters which passed between Brandes and Nietzsche, have been gathered and published under the title "Friedrich Nietzsche." The translation into English is by A. G. Chater and is well done.
The volume will be enjoyed by those who know the work of the German philosopher. It will be enjoyed by those who are not well acquainted with Nietzsche because it is written as an introduction of the author to the Danish people, who had not even heard his name at that time. The correspondence will be relished. In it one can easily see at that time and he cannot see it now because he, too, suffers somewhat from
the "persecution" idea, fearing that all of literary Europe is in league against him.

An unusual man is George Brandes.
This makes his work about another peculiar genius especially interesting. He writes with a fascination all his own and is worth reading, whether one agrees with him or not. (Macmillan Co.)

"NATURAL EDUCATION."
AMONG the youthful prodigies who have attracted public attention recently, Winifred Sackville Stoner Jr. is one of the best known. She has mastered several languages at an age when most children do not know their alphabets. She contributed fables and stories to magazines at the age of five.
Her intellectual attainments do not seem to have interfered with her physical growth. She can excel boys playing at that time and she cannot see it now
because he, too, suffers somewhat from
the "persecution" idea, fearing that all
of literary Europe is in league against
him.

Of course, it took great patience, tact and ceaseless effort on the part of the mother. But the mother does not give herself credit for her part in the development of her little daughter. How was it all done? That is the question mother and educator ask. The many questions have resulted in a book by Mrs. Winifred Sackville Stoner. She calls her book "Natural Education" and in it she tells the story of her child's development. The story is simply told.
The methods are given so that they may be easily adopted by other mothers. It seems from the simple story that results were obtained in a most natural manner.

Its directness and simplicity make the book doubly valuable. It is in no way theoretical or rhetorical.
"Natural Education" is part of a new series of books on the cultivation and development of childhood and youth.
The series will be known as "The Childhood and Youth Series." Prof. M. V.
O'Brien, head of the department of education in Wisconsin University, is editor of the series. Each book is to contain an introduction by him. Prominent educators are at work writing books for the series. They are to deal with all possible phases of child and youth development. The series is published by the Bobbs-Merrill Co.

New Decision That Affects Merchants
Selling Soap Goods.
In the case of the F. V. D. Co. vs. L.
J. Freud in the U. S. Court, Judge Hand has decided that merchants who advertise a certain article must carry a reasonable stock of the goods and in the average size. Some unscrupulous merchants have carried a few pieces of a well-known commodity and then sold imitation goods.

WHEN THE WORLD WAS YOUNG.

BOYS and unsophisticated persons will enjoy reading "A Son of the Ages," by the late Stanley Waterloo, author of "The Story of Ab." This new book is not a sequel to "The Story of Ab," but a sort of moving picture story, told in the first person, by a man who, after beginning life in the trees as a "missing link," and then learning to live with his fellows on the ground, in caves, gradually evolves into a semi-civilized state. This is accomplished by the author of the romance in much the same way that Arnold, in that now almost forgotten story, "Phra the Phoenician," caused his hero to experience more than ordinary mortals, namely,
through a sort of reincarnation. Phra, after being wounded in battle or losing consciousness by some accident, goes to sleep to awake in a new age and begin all over again. The hero of "A Son of the Ages" does the same, and his experiences extend all the way from the tree dwellers, direct descendants of the ape, according to Darwinism, down to the conquest of Britain by the Romans.
Each chapter is well told, and, especially in the earlier adventures, one is reminded of Robinson Crusoe, with his crude beginnings of civilization and his attempts at invention and improvement.
There are several ingenious explanations of how men learned to make and do things that were once astonishing, but which we now look upon as commonplace. (Doubleday, Page & Co.)

"MIND AND SPIRIT."

THERE is mind and there is spirit
and the greatest of these is spirit,
according to Thomas Kirby Davis,
A. M., D. D., who has written a book about them at the age of 89. His book is entitled "Mind and Spirit." His argument is that mentality is not man's most important endowment. The religious instinct, he says, is more important.
He contends that the mind being inferior to the spirit, the object of all education should be to enable the spirit to dominate the mind. He thinks that education which ignores the spiritual nature, or even subordinates it, is to that extent a failure.

The book is divided into three sections. The first sets forth the reasonableness of faith in the truth of Scripture, the second argues for the acceptance of the Bible as it stands and as a divine revelation, and the third is given over to a study of the psychology of man as taught by the New Testament.
The author is a doughty champion of orthodoxy, and smites the heretical errors that, he thinks, grow out of placing the mind above the spirit. (Sherman, French & Co.)

A MODERATE DRINKER'S STORY.

THE experiences of a man who consumed liquor in moderate quanties for more than 20 years and suddenly made up his mind to mount the "water wagon," are entertainingly told by Samuel G. Blythe in "The Old Game." Blythe is one of the most widely known journalists in the United States and is now connected with the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.
After swearing off it took him nearly three years to get the liquor out of his system, he asserts. The experience was not altogether a pleasant one during his early efforts, but later on he took a genuine delight in abstaining liquor. He asserts that he is better physically and mentally for having quit, and can do a much greater amount of work than in the period that he was drinking.

"BOOKING" A SUNDAY SCHOOL.

HERE was trouble in the Parkside Memorial Sunday School. The attendance had decreased woefully.
The minister called its officers to a conference. Its superintendent had old-fashioned ideas, mostly dull, as to how a Sunday school should be conducted.
There was something of a clash.
Then John Hancock Barker was called.
He was a "push your business" type product of modern training. And the way he "booked" the Parkside
Memorial Sunday School was a caution.
His sessions became snappy and entertaining. The old superintendent called it a "vaudeville show." But it drew the children. And the final success of the Barker methods brings the amusing story to its close.
The little book is by William Hanson
Rose, author of "The Ginger Cure," "Putting Marshallville on the Map" and other diverting tales. It may be that there are some valuable suggestions for Sunday school management in this story. (Duffield & Co.)

A Practically Perfect Preparation.

YEARS of experience have enabled Mr. Fletcher to make Castoria a practically perfect preparation. These years of labor: the amount of money required to introduce its merits to the public; the investment in its manufacture, including the most modern machinery, mean a vast amount of invested capital. It follows that the greatest care is exercised in the selection of each ingredient, and the greatest attention is paid to every detail of its preparation. The result is the practically perfect preparation in the finished product; Fletcher's Castoria.

Herein lies the guarantee of the absolute safety in the use of Fletcher's
Castoria for the baby, and the warning against irresponsible makers of imitations and counterfeits. The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher that is printed in black on the wrapper and red on the bottle is the mother's safeguard.

Fletcher's
CASTORIA

Extracts from Letters by Grateful
Parents to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Mrs. John W. Derrick, of Lexington, S. C., says: "My children cry for Castoria, I could not do without it."

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gales, of Ripley, Tenn., say: "We endorse our baby's picture hoping it will induce some poor tired mothers to give your Castoria a trial. We have used it since baby was two weeks old."

Mrs. J. G. Farman, of Nashville, Tenn., says: "The perfect health of my baby is due to your Castoria—the first and only medicine he has taken.
He is never satisfied with one dose, he always cries for more."

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Johnson, of Stevens Point, Wis., say: "When our baby was two weeks old he cried so much we did everything for him, then got some Castoria and he is now strong and fat. We would not be without it, and are very thankful to you."

The Jarr Family

Both Ways Make the Jarrs "Get in Dutch"

Written for the Post-Dispatch
 By ROY MCCARDELL

"YOU'D better tell Mrs. Clara Mudridge-Smith that Zareff the Occult's right name is Ryan, and that he is under indictment now for swindling an ice cream manufacturer out of $30,000, and in Chicago when he was arrested."

"Who told you all this?" asked Mrs. Jarr, interrupting Mr. Jarr's flood of disclosure.

"Dinkston, Michael Angelo Dinkston," replied Mr. Jarr. "Why, he used to—"

"It's very queer that Mr. Dinkston knows so much of the past, and yet he cannot foretell the future!" Mrs. Jarr interjected again. "It is very odd Mr. Dinkston knows how this person and that person swindles and who they have swindled, and yet is Mr. Dinkston a successful business man himself? Is he even a psychic?"

"Well, he knows the fortune telling graft and fortune telling grafters. Why, over in a certain town Dinkston says there are 300 of them, and he recently gets a 'razor'."

"A what?" asked Mrs. Jarr. "Well, if the man got a razor, why don't he shave himself with it? The last time he was in this house he needed a shave, and he needed a clean shirt, too! It is very strange that a man without a change of linen should charge Zareff, the occult, who is as neat as wax—so he must be a perfect gentleman, as regards his mundane body, at least—with being a swindler! I've been too busy to run every day to fortune tellers with Clara Mudridge-Smith, but she is doing crystal gazing now, under psychiatric direction of Zareff, and she says that, by refraction of the infinite, she visualizes the color of her soul and sees her astral nimbus like a flame breathed upon those were Zareff's very words—a flame breathed upon."

"Well, he has a fame blown upon!" sneered Mr. Jarr. "I tell you, Dinkston told me he got a 'razor'—razor in their slang means a letter. In that letter Dinkston is told that Barberpole is getting Camden and all the 'bookies' are going to 'Wilson' to this other town. Dinkston says that translated this means St. Louis is getting dangerous, and all the fortune-teller swindlers are preparing a coup to rob their gulls in one big haul and skip the town. So I thought you'd better warn your friend, Mrs. Mudridge-Smith."

"I'll do nothing of the kind," said Mrs. Jarr. "In the first place, she wouldn't thank me; in the second place, she wouldn't listen to me, and in the third place, when she did get swindled she'd never forgive me because I warned her. She'll keep her mouth shut if she is swindled, and she won't believe me if I advise her now she'll be swindled!"

"I think it my duty to warn her husband then," remarked Mr. Jarr. "He's going to the same fortune teller, but he doesn't know his wife is a client of Zareff's, or rather a 'thirty-eight,' and she doesn't know her husband is."

"If you'll take my advice you'll mind your own business!" counseled Mrs. Jarr. "What I say about his wife is equally true about her husband. Mind your own business."

This was good advice, which Mr. Dinkston also indorsed. But age could not wither, Mr. Jarr's impudent friendliness.

"Mr. Jarr," said the boss, severely after the warning had been delivered, "you are employed by me as a manager of an important department of this establishment, are you not?"

"Yes, sir, I am," replied Mr. Jarr, in calm expectancy of praise and promotion.

"Then," the boss icily resumed, "kindly confine your gigantic mental activities to increasing the business and efficiency of your department, and do not let my personal affairs concern you!"

But all the same, the boss seized the first opportunity to leave the office, and speed in a taxicab to the lair of Zareff the Occult. To his surprise he met his own wife coming from the place in angry tears.

"I have been swindled," she hysterically. "Mrs. Jarr got me to see this fortune teller and he gone! And he got $300 in gold to magnetise—"

"You are a silly, extravagant an!" snarled Mr. Smith, but he say the fortune teller had "Wit with twice as much gold as he was netting for him. 'I wonder if man Jarr and his wife were a plices of Zareff' the Occult. To his surprise he met his own wife coming from the place in

HICKVILLE DOINGS

From Our Hickville Correspondent
 Hazen Conklin

Personals and Locals.

MR. HICK, our village Greenie, says as how while Ezra, Jr.'s first year in college might of hurt him a lot about Greek roots, which is a furrin kind of vegetublia, it 't learnt him no new wrinkles on 't that kin be ris in this climate.

Ms Euphemie Hicks has writ a book for your valued correspondent to publish in this column of local intelligentsia. This is it: To her husband a woman said: "Jack, I see that the bustle is back." Then her husband, sez he: "Why, where else would it be?" And the ducks in the yard cried "Quack! Quack!"

Town Clerk Hippolyte Harkness is kin to start a bureau of information 't our midst. Amos Crab, our local sneerer, says as how if there's anything toin on in our midst that there don't everybody in Hickville know about already the local gossip must all be away on a vacation.

Gideon Springs got the best of a pair of city chaps who was goin by his place in a automobile yesterday. Gid was puttin round the barnyard barefoot and the city chaps stopped and "griped" him. "Hello, Gid, that's a purty nice pair of shoes you have on. 't never have to patch em, do you?" "Quick as a wink, Gid, he sez: "Nope, but I've got some extra shoes in the barn that you kin have when you're wear out." There wasn't no fresh city chaps catch Gid.

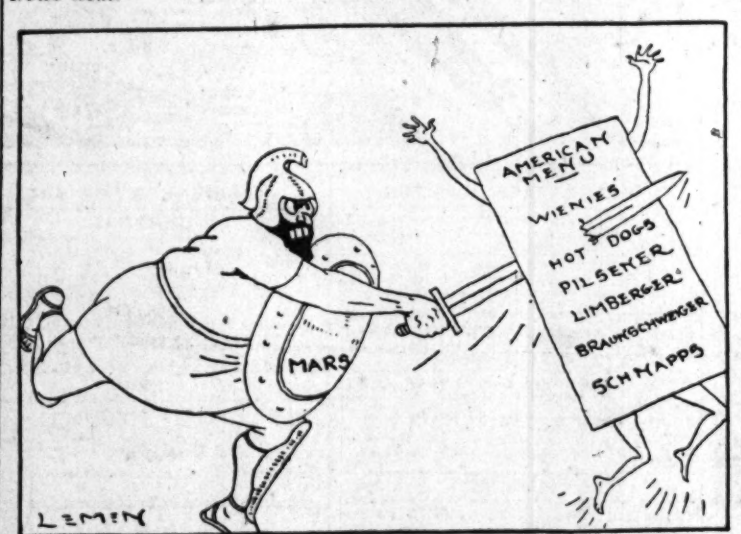

Your valued correspondent got your requestin a collection of some of Amos Crab, our local sneerer's best sneers. Amos sneered four for us. He says he'll meet some more some time when he's feelin good and sneery. He's the ones he sneered for us right 't the real.

The reason more people ain't got no sneers is because they've got too much in 'em.

There ain't no more men kin make change her mind, but if she's

The Horrors of War.

One of the first results of a general European war probably will be to stop all exports of wines and foodstuffs to the United States.

By James E. Craig.

A H Wienerwurst, dear Wienerwurst, how sadly we deplore, The harsh and cruel circumstance that keeps thee from our shore! And thou, sweet ham, Westphalia ham, how bitter it will be, To drag out weary, endless days without a bite of thee!

N O more Braunschweiger hither comes, no vintage from the Rhine; For just a nip of Lemberg's cheese, in vain, in vain we pine! The dusky brew of Pilsen make no longer slakes our thirst— No more the yearning palate knows the taste of liverwurst.

N O more the rich cognac of France, the luscious cheese from Brie, The crimson flow of rare Bordeaux, or Schnapps from Zuyder Zee, Or caviar from Petersburg, or ortolans from Nice We can procure—not even if we have ten times the price.

A H, heartless war! It were enough that thou shouldst orphan make, Or that thy crimson, stalking feet should set the earth a quake! Alas! Can sorrow's pleading voice no pity stir in you, That you must lay unholy hands on Yankee land's menu!

let alone she'll change it 40 times a day of her own accord.

"Every farmer in Hickville kin tell you how the affairs of the nation ought to be handled when they're in Dimple Bros' back room, but git 'em home and see how they handle their corner of it!"

"When you hear a man all the time talkin about his affairs you kin make up your mind that his affairs are all

DO ANY OF THESE FIT YOU?

Some children are so much better behaved in public than their parents, one is not surprised their parents object to taking them about.

A man who is always complaining cannot get any attention when he has a real grievance.

If a man is really misunderstood he has himself to blame for not making himself clear.

A man may be without vice and yet fall short of being a useful member of society.

A little learning is a dangerous thing when it is overestimated.

The foolish man is not always the large talker. We have seen some of them get the writing habit.

A woman's reverence for the mighty masculine intellect is apt to decline after she has been married to one for a few months and has discovered that all

Experience has taught us that the barber who selects limburger cheese for his luncheon is always a fluent talker.

Many a man has got a reputation for courage from having been scared so stiff that he couldn't run.

Most of a man's thoughts about his wife are after-thoughts.

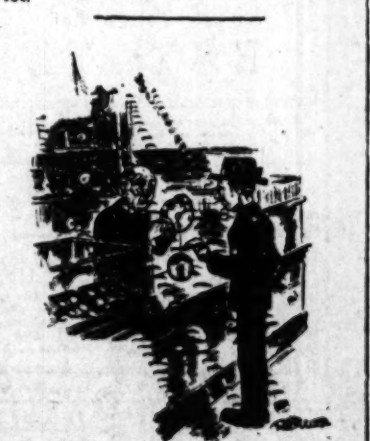

A man will go to all sorts of trouble to catch a fish he doesn't want, just in order to prove that he can; but, somehow, he never can comprehend why a woman will go to the same lengths in order to fascinate a man that she doesn't want for the same reason.

Marriage turns a man's and woman's character inside out—and the danger lies in that they are so apt to forget which is the right side.

A BOUT the best way to waste time is to spend it arguing with a man who knows he knows, he can't possibly be mistaken.

Precaution.

PAT and Mike were obliged to halt their heavily loaded cart to make way for a funeral. Gazing at the procession, Pat suddenly remarked:

"Mike, I wish I knew where I was going to die. I'd give $500 to know the place where I'm going to die."

"Well, Pat, what good would it do if you knew?"

"Lots," said Pat. "Sure, I'd never go near that place."

Right.

H E: I wonder what the meaning of that picture is? The youth and the maiden are in a tender attitude.

She: Oh, don't you see? He has just asked her to marry him. How sweet! What does the artist call the picture?

He (looking about): Oh, I see. It's written on the card at the bottom, "Sold."
